Chenghao implemented a login and register page with UI (such as displaying hidden chars when the user types in password)

Jennifer added redirects and messages to handle all test cases of the login and register page.

- On the login page, If user enters invalid username (i.e a username that has not been registered yet), it redirects to the register page with message "Username does not exist, redirecting back to register page"
- If user enters valid username but incorrect password, it displays a message "Incorrect password"
- User must enter both username and password to login, or else it displays "Please enter both username and password." message

Mateusz implemented the basic homepage layout with a carousel of photos

Jennifer implemented a following page where users can enter other usernames to follow. The following page displays a list of usernames the user is currently following
